“ Dear Bev and Family, we thought the world of Greg, even though we never got to know him well. We loved hearing you (Bev) laughing when you two were in the garage, or working out in your yard. We knew every time that happened that Greg had cracked one of his jokes and made you laugh (what a blessing, to have been married to someone who made you laugh!) We also know that he was a kind man who was always eager to help out. We'll never forget the day that we tried carrying our new grandfather clock into our house, and he could see that I (Janice) was having trouble holding up my end of the clock. He and your son were over within seconds and finished the job for us. We will miss him. Our love goes out to the family.

“ Steve,
If only more people were like Stubby! What a guy. I don't think that I have seen you since high school track, or maybe out at Bake's cabin but I did run into Greg on occasion over the years and most recently at Hardware Sales. He always had the big smile while grinning beneath his bushy mustache. I caught his attention, we exchanged pleasantries and then waved to each other from across the lot. That's how I remember Greg, always extending happiness to others that crossed his path of life....;-)
R.I.P. Stubby!
