

Layla Lynn Perrin

November 28, 2003 - January 13, 2026

It is with deep sadness that we announce the sudden passing of Layla Lynn Perrin on January 13, 2026. At just 22 years old, Layla left this world far too soon, leaving behind a space that cannot be filled and a huge ache in the hearts of those that loved, and continue to love her. She was a bright, smart, and deeply witty soul—someone whose humor could sneak up on you and whose insight often surprised people in the best way.

Layla spent the first 12 years of her life living in Juneau, Alaska. This is where her passion for skiing, camping, and adventuring began. She loved being outside and developed a deep connection to nature and wildlife. Layla spent a few years in Portland, Oregon, then Bellingham, Washington as a teen, finally landing in the Seattle area. She was a true Pacific Northwest woman. Her sense of adventure often pulled many people into her pursuit for exciting and novel experiences. Many can attest to the mischief that would unfold when Layla was in the lead.

An artist at heart, Layla saw beauty where others might not think to look. She appreciated the eccentric things in life—the offbeat, the unusual, the things that didn't quite fit. She showed this in her deep connection and love for her two hairless cats, Miso and Sabi. They were the loves of her life and she never batted an eye when someone commented on their strange appearance. She had a special connection to animals in general, offering them the same compassion and understanding she so naturally gave to the world around her. Layla's love for music was an integral part of who she was. She often attended music festivals and loved the built-in community they provided and she never left a festival without gaining at least a couple new close friends. She was always on the lookout for the next best festival, whether it was in Las Vegas or Florida.

Those who knew Layla will remember her sharp mind, her creative spirit, and the way she could make people feel comfortable being themselves, just by being herself. Though her life was brief, the impact she made on others was significant and she will never be forgotten.

Layla is survived by her mother and stepfather (Christy and Scott Boex), father (John Perrin), her two little sisters (Atlin and Finley Boex whom she adored with her whole heart), and her grandparents (Reid and Pam Tippets). She is also remembered by friends and loved ones who will miss her laughter, her grounded perspective, and her adventurous soul more than words can express.

In lieu of flowers, the family asks that donations be made in Layla's memory to your local mental health and suicide prevention organization, in hopes of bringing compassion, care, and help to others who may be struggling.

“ *Pam and family,
I am so sorry to hear of Layla's passing. I can still remember her as a little thing and totally the apple of her grandma and grandpa eyes.
Maybe your warm memories help you through today and the years to come.*
