“ Aunt Shirley was always so happy to see anyone who came to visit. I enjoyed talking about “good reads” with her, and shared her delight in her “bird garden.” She was who she she was and made no pretense about being anything other. I guess that’s called being honest. Her smile of recognition and touch to my face the last time I saw her are a memory I will always treasure. Her family was the most important thing in her life. I’m thankful I was a part of that family. I mourn the loss of the last of her generation... we, and our children, are now the keepers of the family stories and history. My prayers have been answered; Shirley has found peace. My love to you Jon, Jenny, Loveta, and her precious grandchildren.
